

Children's Health / Immunization Research Links:

To Dr. _____: This is our official and formal statement regarding your care of our child, _____, and our stance on "immunization" in general (for any child). First we want to say for the record that you're one of the most friendly, personable, and open-minded pediatricians we've met. And, what makes your guidance and council important to us is the fact that you have two younger children as well.

Like us, we know you want the very best for your children. Every child's and every infant's life is valuable... each being precious, full of life, warm, and infused with unlimited possibility. Yet, after performing extensive research, examining competing theories, and thinking critically about who is saying what, and what studies and facts are being presented by certain people/organizations, the evidence is crystal clear for us: there's no historical proof nor controlled scientific study that vaccines are safe and effective.

We're a holistic, health-minded, research-oriented family. We consider all sides of a debate, especially about topics that move in and out of the moral, societal, and sovereignty dance floor.

We completely understand (and even empathize with the one-sidedness you've experienced in medical school and residency training) that you're taught (almost pressured to believe) that childhood immunizations are essential to public health. And, that's okay. It's what the establishment wants – a medical community that all thinks the same way.

All we ask, as Konan's doctor, is that you spent time looking at the other side of the story (your own due-diligence, at your own computer at home). We'll end our statement with what the great comedian – and highly-aware and intelligent human – Jim Carrey recently said:

"The truth is that no one without a vested interest in the profitability of vaccines has studied all 36 of them in depth. There are more than 100 vaccines in development, and no tests for cumulative effect or vaccine interaction of all 36 vaccines in the current schedule have ever been done. If I'm mistaken, I challenge those who are making such grand pronouncements about vaccine safety to produce those studies."

And, instead of having any instant thought of "heck, what does he know, he's just a comedian!" we truly hope you're as curious, open-minded, and inquisitive as we are when it comes to KNOWING the truth! The links on page 2 are a good start. And, the information found is enough for us to be completely dead-set against vaccinations at the time for Konan.
